

Undergraduate Studies Programmes

1.	Bachelor of Science in Human Resource Development (B. Sc. HRD)	<ul style="list-style-type: none">▪ The Bachelor of Science (Human Resource Development) programme has been offered since the year 1997. The programme was renamed in in the year 2017 to Bachelor of Science in Human Resource Development with the overall minimum of 125 credit hours for graduation including 2 credit hours of extra-curricular course. ▪ The duration of study is 4 years (8 semesters) ▪ Graduates from this programme have a wide career path either in the public sector, private sector or in the non-government sector. Graduates are able to further studies either locally or internationally. In general, graduates are able to explore careers in fields related to human resource development. The fields of career are as follows: Fields in Human Resource Development<ul style="list-style-type: none">(i) Executive/Officer in Human Resource Development(ii) Executive/Officer in Human Resource(iii) Executive/Officer in Training and Development(iv) Executive/Officer in Corporate Communication(v) Executive/Officer in Safety and Health Other related fields:<ul style="list-style-type: none">(i) Administrative Officer(ii) Administrative and Diplomatic Officer(iii) Consultant for Human Resource(iv) Certified Trainer
----	---	--